SAME DAY, 2 o'clock, p. m.

Senate reassembled at the expiration of the recess.

On motion of Mr. Ross, the message of His Excellency, the Governor, was read, as follows :

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

You have assembled for the transaction of such business as may be necessary to the welfare of the people whom you represent. Within the domain of legislative authority your will is supreme. The duty of the Executive in respect to legislation is merely advisory, as he can only make such recommendations or suggestions as he may deem expedient. Upon you devolves a grave responsibility, and it behooves you to proceed with the utmost caution in the execution of the public trust committed to your custody. Your action during this session of the General Assembly will provoke praise or censure as it approaches to or recedes from the principles of right and justice. The promotion of the common good should be the sole aim of your patient endeavors, and any proposed legislation that will not be conducive to that end should receive your prompt and emphatic condemnation. You bear your commissions from a brave, honest, intelligent and sturdy people, which should inspire you with a determination to execute their will in a fearless and faithful manner. The acceptance or rejection of any measure that may be submitted for your consideration should be preceded by the most careful thought and analysis, so that your action in that respect shall command the sanction of the public conscience. Hasty legislation is one of the growing evils of legislative bodies, and should be studiously avoided. In order that no ill-advised laws may creep into the body of our statutes, you should proceed at once to the consideration of those subjects which concern the public, and to which your attention has in some degree been already invited.

It is a common fault with legislative bodies to defer the most important subjects for their consideration to the last of the session and then dispose of them in scenes of hurry and confusion. Most of the uncertainty as to the meaning of statutes, and their incongruities, may be traced to this source. No measure should be passed and allowed to become a law until it has been fully considered and clearly understood. To this end your committees, which will be charged with the duty of formulating and investigating bills of a public nature, should begin their work without delay. This would save you from the annoyance of either having to defeat or rush through your respective bodies measures without the thought their importance deserves, and the public many times from the vexatious consequences of crude and imperfect laws, and will also save you from the criticism of unduly protracting your session and unnecessarily increasing the expense. There is no reason why the last days of the session should be crowded with business requiring your attention if, at the beginning thereof, you would promptly address yourselves to the performance of your several duties.

With these prefatory remarks, I will now, in accordance with the precedents of my official duty, lay before you a review of the public events of the last two years which have a bearing upon the interest and welfare of the people of Delaware, and also to connect therewith certain recommendations which are submitted for your consideration and favorable action.

FINANCES.

The financial condition of the State continues to maintain the healthful and gratifying position which intelligent, frugal and honest administration of its resources has served to establish.

The report of the State Treasurer is herewith submitted, which exhibits in detail the operations of his department. The most important feature therein is the reduction of the debt of the Junction and Breakwater Railroad to the State from $400,000 to $185,000, and the consequent reduction of our interest-bearing debt of $215,000. Each reduction of our public debt results in a relief to the tax-payers, and the gratifying condition is reported of an excess of State assets over all State liabilities of $347,092, as is shown by the following statement :

The credit of the State being thus placed in the front rank, the lowest rate of interest is paid upon our public obligations, and a sense of security is diffused into the private transactions of the people throughout the community, making the means easier of borrowing at lesser rates, and inviting capital to invest within our borders. The lowest rate of interest always follows the best security, and abundant capital inures to the benefit of the borrower, enabling him to make easy terms. Nothing that tends to discourage investments of capital within the State should be allowed to creep in under the cover of mistaken legislation.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Among the important questions which imperatively require your early consideration and judicious action is that relating to the calling of a convention for the revision and amendment of the existing constitution of this State.

This constitution was adopted by the convention of 1831. Since then it has remained unchanged except by two minor alterations through the legislative mode of constitutional amendment. That it has so remained during sixty years of practical operation, especially in view of the surprising changes wrought by the spirit of modern progress and improvement, is convincing evidence of the wisdom and foresight of its authors, and of their comprehension of the conditions, needs, characteristics and tendencies of the people of this commonwealth.

That the plan of government established by this constitution has been admirably adapted to the situation, means, and general interest of our people, and that it has in a remarkable degree secured to them capable and honest public servants, and a frugal, efficient and reputable administration of the legislative, executive and judicial departments of the State, and has thus maintained the public honor and general welfare, with comparative economy to the taxpayers, is certainly undeniable. But it is nevertheless true, that within a very recent period, owing partly to altered conditions within our State, and partly to the example and influence of constitutional changes in other States, a considerable portion of our citizens have evinced a desire for a convention for the revision and amendment of our present constitution.

Accordingly, in recognition of this sentiment, the General Assembly (at its sessions of 1887 and 1891) has twice made provision for special elections to take the sense of the people in regard to the calling of such a convention. That the sentiment has gradually increased is shown by the fact that the vote in favor of such convention was materially greater at the second than at the first of these elections.

The election of 1887 was unsuccessful; and that the special election of 1891 also failed to furnish the majority necessary for the calling of a convention, as prescribed by the act authorizing said election, clearly appeared upon the ascertainment of the state of the vote thereat, subsequently made by the respective boards of canvass in the several counties, although the conclusive ascertainment of the result of said election is yet authoritatively to be made by this General Assembly, pursuant to the provisions of the fifth section of said act.

In anticipation of the possible failure of said election of 1891, the General Assembly which passed the act authorizing it, subsequently, at the same session, also passed an act (by a two-thirds vote of each branch thereof) proposing an amendment to Article IX of the constitution, and thereby providing for the taking a vote of the people in respect to calling a convention at the general election. The object of this proposed constitutional amendment is to give the people an opportunity, under the most favorable circumstances consistent with the public welfare, again to express their will at the ballot-box in regard to the calling of a constitutional convention. This proposed amendment, before it can become a part of the constitution, must first have been approved by the Governor, and subsequently duly published for the consideration of the people, and finally ratified by a three-fourths vote of each branch of the General Assembly at its present session.

As my approval of said amendment was a condition precedent to your ratification of it, it becomes my duty to consider not only the general necessity of any such action, but also the suitability of this particular measure. Upon reflection I was favorably convinced in respect to both, and accordingly gave it my official approval; whereupon it was duly published for the consideration of the people, and now awaits your action in regard to its ratification.

Although the reasons both for and against its approval were gravely considered, yet those in favor of the proposed amendment seemed greatly to outweigh the objections to it. In view of the fruitless expense of the two recent special elections, and of the fact that the result at that of 1891 came within a few hundred votes only of the majority required to authorize the calling of a convention, it seems not only judicious but just to afford to the people, in a safe and reasonable way (as this amendment does) a favorable opportunity to express their will in respect to a convention under circumstances which will be most likely to cause the least inconvenience to the voter and the least expense to the taxpayer. For the attainment of this end, the vote at a general election, in conformity with the provisions of said amendment, unquestionably offers greater advantages than that at a special election.

Whilst there are strong arguments in favor of taking the sense of the people in respect to calling a convention at a time when the voters will not be subject to the influences attending a general election, yet the prevailing practice elsewhere is in favor of a vote for such a purpose at the general election. If a convention were now sitting, and actually engaged in revising our constitution, it might well consider the propriety, in view of our recent experience of special elections, of adopting, as a permanent constitutional provision, the plan of taking such sense of the people at a general instead of a special election, especially if such plan be sufficiently guarded against hasty constitutional changes under the influence of sudden popular excitement or violent partisan passion.

But, upon the present occasion, it is not necessary to determine whether the proposed amendment to Article IX should hereafter be a permanent provision of our constitution. That will be the special duty of the convention which shall be called to revise and amend that entire instrument. We are now dealing with an exceptional case, and this proposed amendment is practically a preliminary measure to serve a special occasion. Its immediate purpose is to supply an urgent need and afford a present means for taking the sense of the people in respect to calling the convention in a mode which, in the light of recent experiments with special elections, is, at this juncture, far more desirable than the latter.

To show that this conclusion is well founded, it is merely necessary to advert to the fact that said amendment was proposed, without a dissenting voice in either branch, by the General Assembly of 1891, which represented, in its membership, all parties and all classes, as well as every section and every interest within our State. With such a consensus of popular opinion favoring it, its prompt ratification must assuredly create general satisfaction and evoke public commendation. On the contrary, if not ratified, general disappointment and popular discontent will doubtless follow, resulting, possibly, in ultimate resort to violent construction of the constitution and revolutionary methods for the purpose of securing a convention and hasty alterations of that instrument. The ratification, however, of the proposed amendment will certainly avert such a result and satisfactorily settle the protracted agitation of the question of calling the convention. For, whilst providing for the desired vote at a general instead of a special election, it also, with the object of removing all ground for uncertainty and controversy regarding the proper construction of Article IX, makes express and precise provision for the specific mode by which every stage of the proceedings for the calling and election of a convention shall be conducted.

The amendment, in reality, is a compromise between the conflicting views of those who have sought to secure a convention and early constitutional changes by hasty methods and an ultra-liberal construction of Article IX, and those who have favored more deliberate methods and a strictly conservative construction thereof. By it the former may secure the express authority to have the vote respecting a convention taken at a general election whilst the latter may obtain the specific and deliberate mode by which the proceedings for the calling and election thereof shall be conducted. If ratified, it will therefore insure the coöperation of both sides in behalf of a judicious, deliberate and safe means of procuring not only a capable and conservative convention, but also the subsequent ratification of its work.

Having given this important measure my official approbation, because a due regard for the general welfare, a strict fidelity to public pledges, and a wise support of constitutional reforms seemed plainly to require its adoption, I now earnestly commend it to your early and favorable consideration.

FREE SCHOOLS.

The recommendation which I had the honor to make in my last message, that the required school books should be supplied to the pupils free of cost, having met the approval of the legislature, has been productive of the most gratifying results. From the superintendents of each of the counties it is learned that the attendance of scholars, since the law went into operation, shows a marked increase, and at the same time the school fund, which is derived chiefly from license fees, has increased in proportion with the expenditure necessary to furnish school books free—the dividend for 1890 being $102,948.65, and for 1892, after deducting the cost of text books, being $121,080.94.

The cost of free school books for the year ending August, 1892, was

In New Castle County,	$ 6,349.58
In Kent County,	6,378.88
In Sussex County,	10,256.72

Being a total for the State of $22,985.18

As this was the first year, the amount necessary to put the law into practical operation was greatest, and it will be diminished in future years, so that a very small portion of this amount will be expended hereafter; but it is believed, in view of the beneficent operation of the law and of the popular benefits derived from this assistance to the poorer classes of our community, that every dollar, so expended, will receive the hearty approval of all good citizens.

Upon examination of the Auditor's report it will be found that at the close of the school year in June, 1892, the following amounts were in the hands of the clerks of the school districts in the several counties:

In New Castle County,	$23,643.41
In Kent County,	10,952.79
In Sussex County,	16,837.26

Total amount in the hands of school clerks, $51,433.46

This statement would seem to show that the receipts for school purposes in many districts are in excess of the amount required for running the schools in such districts, and that the tax necessary to be levied as a condition upon which they receive their proportionate share of the school dividend is unnecessary. In view of these facts, I would recommend that the law be so amended as to reduce the amount of tax required to be levied by the school districts, and the people thus relieved of the unnecessary burden. The rapid growth of the school fund will soon be sufficient for all school purposes, and there will no longer be a necessity for any tax other than road, county and poor taxes.

In fact, it becomes you to seriously consider whether the time has not now arrived when the amount of tax required to be raised by school districts should not be confined to the necessary expenses independent of tuition.

A due regard for the protection of the public funds demands that such legislation should be enacted as will prevent them from being held without ample security to the State. In the management of the school moneys, if it is deemed too great a burden upon school clerks, who serve without pecuniary reward, to require them to bond, then allow the funds to remain in the hands of a bonded officer, and let all bills for tuition be paid by checks or drafts upon that officer. This would secure a more prompt payment of the salaries of teachers, and at the same time prevent the possibility of loss of funds by an unbonded officer.

COLORED SCHOOLS.

While good results are reported from the legislation for the benefit of colored schools, I regret to say that the progress made by the children of this class of our citizens has not been commensurate with the advantages offered. I am led to believe, however, that this failure is not entirely the fault of these citizens, but that it results very much from the fact that the laws regulating the schools of the colored people and the expenditure of the moneys appropriated for the benefit of their schools are crude and imperfect. The several counties should be districted, and the management of this branch of our schools reduced to a better system, that the children of this class of our citizens, who are so much in need of a liberal education to enable them to intelligently exercise their rights as freemen, should be enabled to derive the greatest benefit from the moneys provided by the laws of the State, and at the same time prevent the waste of public funds. To the better accomplishment of this purpose, and for the further object of harmonizing our school system, and preventing objectionable features, arising from county differences in the general plan of instruction and school regulation, I would again submit for the consideration of the General Assembly the expediency of creating a state superintendent of public schools.

THE JUDICIARY.

The requirements of this occasion constrain me to direct your earnest attention to another subject of very urgent importance.

At the last legislative session a bill was introduced providing a retirement salary for the members of the State judiciary, who, having reached the age of seventy years and having held their commissions for ten years or more, shall have retired from the bench. The object of this bill was to provide the means of immediate retirement for those who, owing to the infirmities of advanced age, shall be no longer able to bear the burden of arduous judicial labors. Although this measure was passed by the Senate, yet it failed in the House because the gravity of the situation was not then fully realized.

Since then, for more than a year past, the actual transaction of judicial business in each county has entirely depended upon two only of the four law judges of the State. The inability of either judge, by reason of illness or other casual disability, to attend his respective courts during this period, would have absolutely suspended the administration of justice throughout the State, and left its people without protection or redress by either criminal or civil proceedings. So great has been the anxiety concerning this grave situation, especially in New Castle county, that, more than six months ago, an organized effort was made to induce me to convene the General Assembly in extraordinary session to make suitable provision to meet so serious an emergency.

After due reflection, however, it was deemed most advisable not to pursue this course, but to await, if possible, your present meeting in regular biennial session. The urgent duty, therefore, is now devolved upon me of drawing your favorable attention to and recommending your earliest practicable action upon this pressing subject. The exigency is such that, if suitable provision to meet it shall not have been made during the present session, a special session, with its attending expense and other objections, may have to be convened for that purpose.

The provision in that behalf which seems to be viewed with general favor is that embodied in the bill introduced at the session of 1891, to which I have referred. If a similar bill, providing an adequate retirement salary for the aged and honored members of the bench, who have long devoted the best years and efforts of their lives to the able and faithful administration of justice in this State, shall promptly be enacted, it is believed that all which at present is really needed will be accomplished.

That such a measure will generally be regarded as eminently just now seems manifest. No other course seems so well adapted to the attainment of so desirable a result and to the urgency of the existing situation.

The only approximate alternative would be a resort to a constitutional amendment by the legislative mode, with a view to some change of our present judicial system. But the ratification of such an amendment by the requisite three-fourths of each branch of the next legislature—of which there can now be no certainty—would require at least two years; whilst the present exigency and the public safety demand an immediate remedy and will admit of no such delay.

Moreover, the advocates of a change of our judicial system differ widely—and probably irreconcilably—not only in respect to the specific alterations to be made, but also in regard to the most effectual mode of securing them. Under these circumstances the success of any constitutional amendment by the legislative mode, in behalf of such a change, does not appear to be encouraging; on the other hand, the prompt enactment of the proposed retirement salary provision will afford both a sure and an immediate remedy. It will also render needless any resort to temporary expedients in the line of hastily devised constitutional amendments, and wisely leave advantageous alterations of our judiciary system, together with the general subject of constitutional reforms, to the more thorough, comprehensive and deliberate consideration of the convention hereafter to be called for the purpose.

TAXATION.

In the early period of this country's history the small amount of tax necessary to be levied for the expenses of government, the tangible character of most of the property at that time in existence, the comparative ease with which it could be reached, and the fact that the people were less migratory and the cities smaller, made the problem of taxation much less important and difficult than it is at present. There was comparatively little personal property in existence one hundred years ago; but in the present century that species of property, at first gradually, then very rapidly, assumed the enormous proportions to which we are now accustomed. It has increased relatively more rapidly than real property, until "now it is regarded as its equal in value in most of our American commonwealths." Under the influence of inventions and discoveries, and the industrial changes accompanying them in the development of a new country, it has assumed various new forms; and in the application of the old tax laws in the States generally it has been found that the old classifications of taxable property failed to include a large mass of wealth held under these new forms. This caused dissatisfaction and irritation among those who bore the heaviest burden of government, and led to an agitation of the question of taxation throughout the country, resulting, in many States, in a change of the basis of taxation. That much interest has been taken by the citizens of this State in the subject is evidenced by the fact that they had a bill prepared and introduced in the House of Representatives, during the last session of the General Assembly, which provided for a change of the general basis of taxation in the several counties of the State by including therein all productive investments. In view of the importance of such a measure, and the diversity of opinion as to its advisability, it was deemed best to appoint a commission, with authority to investigate and consider the entire subject, and report to the next General Assembly. Accordingly a commission was formed, whose report will be submitted to your honorable bodies. No doubt it will be thorough and exhaustive, as the members are men of undoubted ability and large experience, representing all interests involved and both of the principal political parties of the State.

It will be your duty to deal with this report, and with the subject generally, in a calm, deliberate and rational manner. As equality is one of the fundamental principles of taxation, it seems unfair and inequitable that any class or species of property should be entirely exempt from the tax burden. All should contribute to the support of government in proportion to their capacity or "respective ability."

In making a revision of the tax laws, however, so as to subject investments to their operation, you should consider well whether it would be expedient to make them a part of the common basis of taxation. You should ever keep in mind that capital is very shy and will always seek those conditions which are favorable to the production of the largest profit without diminution on account of expense or taxes. A learned economist has said "Do not tax anything that would be of value to us that can go away and be independent of us, but will come here and stay with us and be a benefit." If therefore, you should pass a law imposing a tax upon investments, which the holders thereof deemed excessive, it might result in driving considerable money out of the State and preventing foreign capital from seeking investment in the State. If this were to be the effect of such an enactment, available capital for purposes of investment in the State would gradually be diminished, and a scarcity of money in the hands of the people would be the result. Such a condition the most ardent advocates of the taxing of investments would greatly deplore, because a scarcity of money always produces cheap lands, lower wages and higher rates of interest. No one can deny the justice of the demand for the relief of real estate and the farmer's stock from a portion of the tax burden, but it is for you to decide how this shall be done. The tax commissioners of those States which have made investments a part of the basis of taxation, almost without an exception, pronounce the operation of their new tax laws a great disappointment. They say the comparative ease with which personal property can be placed beyond the reach of the tax-gatherer has rendered the laws practically ineffectual, even in such a great State as Ohio, and has had a demoralizing effect upon the public conscience. The reports of some States show that the totals of assessments are decreasing instead of increasing notwithstanding the rapid growth of wealth, owing to the disregard for the oath required to be taken and the increased facilities for converting personal property into those forms not subject to taxation.

I present these facts for your information and consideration in treating this question, but awaiting the report of the commissioners, I forbear making any suggestion as to the course to be pursued.

INTERSTATE EXTRADITION.

The constitution of the United States provides that "A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime." By the statute of 1793 Congress enacted appropriate legislation for carrying into effect this constitutional provision. It is an established doctrine that the States can pass no laws inconsistent with this constitutional provision concerning the extradition of fugitive criminals or with this legislation of Congress for its enforcement, for both are the supreme law of the Union, and of each State, and neither can be contravened or superseded by the legislative power of any State.

The Federal constitution imposes upon every State the duty of delivering up the fugitive within its borders on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled—whilst the said act of Congress designates the executive authority of the State to which he has fled as the proper authority to comply with the requisition, and prescribes the specific evidence upon which the Governor shall act.

In this State, prior to March 9, 1883, the practice in reference to requisitions, both by and upon the State, was in accord with said act of Congress, there being no State legislation upon that subject. On that day, however, an act in relation to requisitions for fugitives from justice was passed by the General Assembly. Section 1 of said act requires that evidence additional to that prescribed by the act of Congress must accompany the requisition from another State before the same shall be complied with in this State. Again, Section 3 of said act assumes to divest the Governor of his former exclusive executive discretion under said act of Congress in respect to the legal sufficiency of the requisition from the demanding State, and directs him to refer every such case to the chief justice or one of the associate judges of the State for his judicial examination, hearing, and determination, before the requisition can be complied with.

During my term of office these legislative provisions have not only led to much needless inconvenience and delay, but also to earnest objections and remonstrances from the executives of other States, which have been very embarrassing, and at times have threatened to disturb the interstate comity heretofore existing, and to interpose serious obstacles to that prompt and cordial rendition of our own fugitive criminals which is so essential to the efficient administration of criminal justice. Those legislative provisions, so objectionable elsewhere, have been adopted and have been enforced in extremely few States. Consequently the executives of the great majority of the States which adhere to and insist upon the supremacy of the requirement of the act of Congress governing the subject are naturally impatient of the additional trouble and expense and the vexatious delays which they occasion.

It is a matter for thoughtful consideration whether the interests of justice will not be better served by the repeal of these provisions and by their abandonment in this State until, at least, Congress shall deem it proper to incorporate them in a Federal statute which, being obligatory on all the States, will create uniformity of practice and general harmony among them on this subject.

But whether or not the said objectionable features of Section 1 shall be repealed, I am thoroughly convinced that the provisions of Section 3 should be modified. As they now stand they create expense and delays which are as unnecessary as they are annoying.

In almost every case the requisitions upon this State have been in all respects valid, and the persons arrested and delivered in compliance therewith, instead of questioning, have assented to their sufficiency. In view of this experience, there seems to be no actual necessity of requiring every case to be referred to a judicial examination and determination before the requisition can be complied with or refused. If the said Section 3 shall be so amended as to authorize the Governor either to decide each case himself or to refer it for a judicial determination, as now provided therein, according as he may deem the more advisable in view of the particular circumstances, its execution will prove much more practicable and far more satisfactory, in all essential respects, than at present.

Such a provision would not leave the accused person without adequate remedy, for any error of the Governor in regard to the legality of the requisition, or of his arrest and detention, could still be reviewed by an appropriate legal proceeding; and a statutory requirement that the sheriff, or other officer having him in custody, shall not deliver up the arrested person to the agent of the demanding State until he had first given him a reasonable opportunity, on application of himself, his friends, or counsel, to resort to such proceedings, would amply protect his rights.

UNIFORMITY OF LEGISLATION.

The legislature of this State passed a law, at the session of 1891, providing for the appointment of a commission, to advise with similar commissions that might be appointed in other States, for the purpose of securing uniformity of legislation in the respective States and a greater unanimity of law throughout the country on those matters in which such unanimity is both desirable and possible. This effort for coördinate legislation in the several States, on the subjects of marriage and divorce, the execution of wills and deeds, notarial certificates, bills and notes, and commercial law generally, and other subjects, is probably the most important juristic work ever undertaken in the United States since the adoption of the Federal constitution.

It is of special importance to you, since the commissioners appointed under the statute of this State purpose to submit to you a bill embodying the recommendations of the conference of boards of commissioners. I herewith submit their report, together with the reports of the conference of commissioners, and commend them to your thoughtful consideration.

ELECTION LAWS.

The enactment of new election laws has been productive of manifest advantage, and the experience of the last election held under the registration law and the Australian ballot system have given almost unmixed satisfaction to law-abiding citizens. The privacy of the voter, and his right to absolute secrecy as to his ballot, has been greatly conserved by the new law, which, however, may possibly be improved by amendment, and I trust that careful consideration will be given by your honorable bodies to such intelligent representations as may be laid before you suggestive of increased protection to the secrecy of voting; for it is obvious that the success of bribery and corruption, or intimidation, in interfering with the free and conscientious exercise of the right of suffrage, are all diminished by the sense of absolute secrecy being preserved in the act of voting.

SPECIAL CONSTABLES.

For reasons not easily discerned, but for causes wholly unjust and indefensible, it would appear that at the late election this State was selected by those having charge of the execution of the Federal election laws as the special theater for their abusive administration. The City of Wilmington was the only community in this State containing over twenty thousand inhabitants, in which, under the laws of the United States, deputy marshals could be appointed for the purpose of attending and supervising popular elections.

The wanton and oppressive exercise of the power of arrest and the holding to excessive bail by the United States supervisor of elections, the public threats by the United States marshal, and the actual swearing in by him of large numbers of deputies, colored and white, all selected from one political party, and invested with extreme and undefined powers of arrest, for the purpose of overawing and preventing the peaceful exercise of the rights of franchise, rendered it prudent and necessary for the Governor, in the discharge of his duty under the law, in accordance with the act passed May 15, 1891, upon the application of more than fifty citizens residing in the City of Wilmington, to appoint special constables to attend the polls of that city.

The elections so held were unaccompanied by disorder or violence, and it may be confidently asserted, were as orderly and peaceful as were ever known in that city, no complaint having been filed by any officer, State or Federal, of any obstruction or violence, interfering with the free right of lawful voters. The appointment of a large body of special constables, and at a serious expense to the county, was thus made necessary and unavoidable, for the purpose of defending and preserving the most sacred right of freemen; but the exigency, to meet which the act of the legislature referred to was passed to appoint special constables thereunder, it is hoped and believed will not again arise, and that the amendment or repeal of the United States statutes, under which such oppressive and partisan action became possible, may warrant the repeal of the State law, that was only intended as a remedy and defense of the citizens of the commonwealth against the invasion of their liberties.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

The growth of wealth and population in the City of Wilmington and County of New Castle made it obviously necessary that the machinery of county government, which had heretofore sufficed for a comparatively rural community, should be reformed sufficiently to adapt itself to the newer and more complicated modes of the transaction of the increased volume of public business. The operations of the new laws, so far as they have progressed, have been exceedingly satisfactory, and it is believed will result in the removal of all alleged abuses and a reformation thoroughly consistent with honesty and economy in the collection of taxes and the general administration of the affairs of New Castle county. The collection of taxes has been efficiently accomplished, with economy, in gratifying contrast with former years, and the checks, established by law, upon the action of independent officials, must necessarily tend to accuracy, honesty and economy in the transaction of affairs.

MILITARY.

No State should be without a well regulated militia, and one upon which it can depend in any emergency requiring military interference. This is evidenced by the fact that twenty-one States of this Union were compelled to call out their State militia during the last twelve months for the enforcement of their laws and protection of private property. Under our system of revenue the taxes derived from our railroads alone more than defray the expenses of the State government, including the judiciary, the executive, and the legislative departments, which is an additional reason why the State should be in a position to suppress riots and disorder, and thus protect our greatest source of revenue. Besides, a riot or a strike on our railroads during a profitable harvest of fruits and vegetables would bring untold loss to our farmers and a corresponding loss to all classes of our citizens. I respectfully call your attention to the accompanying report of the Adjutant-General, and submit this matter to your candid and wise consideration. The experience of our sister States should be a sufficient lesson to us in these matters, and unless laws are enacted and appropriations made that will place the military department of this State on such a footing as will make it effectual in case its services should be required, then I recommend its abolition altogether.

QUARANTINE.

On October 27th, 1891, I had the honor to receive a communication from the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, enclosing the following resolution of the General Assembly of that Commonwealth, viz:

"Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Governor be and he is hereby authorized to appoint four persons who shall, with the Governor of the Commonwealth, constitute a board of commissioners whose duty it shall be to communicate with the proper authorities of the Federal Government, or of any State, with a view to obtaining such concessions as will enable the Board of Health of the City of Philadelphia, or the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to secure a suitable site for a Quarantine Station at some point, remote from the centres of population, on the Delaware river. The commissioners shall also inquire into the feasibility of establishing a joint quarantine for the protection of all the ports on the Delaware river and bay, to be controlled by the several States bordering thereon."

The same was accompanied with a request for the appointment by me of three representatives of this State, to confer with the Pennsylvania State Quarantine Commission as to the selection of a site, along the Delaware river or bay, for the establishment of a quarantine station. Not having the authority to appoint such commissioners, but deeming it a matter of much importance to the citizens of this State, owing to its geographical position, I designated three representative citizens, viz: J. Thomas Budd, Edwin R. Cochran and Dr. William P. Orr, jr., with whom they might confer and through whom they could communicate with the General Assembly of this State. I herewith submit a report containing the result of their investigations and their recommendations in respect to said quarantine station. All the seaboard States are taking cautionary measures to prevent a cholera epidemic, and it becomes you to see that your fellow citizens, who are peculiarly exposed to such a contagious and fatal disease, because of their nearness to the large ports of entry, are properly protected.

CARE OF THE INDIGENT.

There is no gauge of advanced civilization more unerring than the adequacy of the provision made by a State for the care of its indigent citizens. Delaware, when measured by this standard, compares favorably with any State in the Union. Each county is provided with suitable and commodious buildings for the comfort and care of the poor; ample provision is made by appropriate legislation for the instruction and education of the indigent deaf and dumb and the blind of our citizens; and the report of the Trustees of the State Hospital at Farnhurst, herewith submitted, sets forth the fact that "it is the first of its kind in the Union—a model home for all the insane within the borders of the State," and shows that most gratifying results have been accomplished since it was established. An additional appropriation is requested by the trustees of the hospital for the purpose of erecting separate buildings for the violent, and the purchase of more land to be utilized in the treatment of the inmates. This should receive your serious consideration, as the needs of this institution have the first claims upon the State for the means to furnish the proper care and treatment of the unfortunate of our citizens who are deprived of their reason, and dependent upon the State, not only for care and support, but also for protection from themselves.

WORLD'S FAIR.

The Board of World's Fair Managers have made a report of their transactions under the act of the last General Assembly, which I herewith submit.

The ten thousand dollars appropriated under said act was not considered at the time to be sufficient to meet all prospective expenses, but as another legislature would assemble before the opening of the exposition, it was left for you to make a further and more ample appropriation. The members of the board feel enthusiastic and much gratified over their work, and no doubt exists but that the fair will be a signal success. I therefore recommend that the General Assembly give this matter their careful and mature consideration, and make such a liberal appropriation for the completion of the work already begun as will secure a representation of Delaware at the World's Fair that will keep our State apace with her sister States in this as in all public undertakings, and at the same time bring credit and pride to our citizens.

DELAWARE COLLEGE.

The report of the president of Delaware College, herewith submitted, shows that institution to be making rapid advances and offering facilities for instruction equal to the best in the land. The liberal appropriations of the last legislature helped to fill the long felt want of additional buildings; and the increased facilities for instruction, and the resolution of the trustees to grant all students, residents of Delaware, free tuition, have greatly increased the number of students, so that we find, "compared with other States, the State of Delaware has a larger per cent. of her population in her own State college than has any other State in the Union."

COLLEGE FOR COLORED STUDENTS.

A college for the education of colored students has been established under the act of the last General Assembly, which, in its equipment, compares favorably with institutions of this kind in any State. The trustees have displayed great wisdom in their selection of a site for the institution and in providing comfortable and commodious buildings, with all the necessary equipments. The attendance, or number of students, however, has been a great disappointment so far, and the expected benefit to the persons for whom it was established a comparative failure. This matter should receive your careful attention and earnest endeavors to secure to those entitled to enter this institution all the benefits which the money expended and the opportunities afforded give reason to expect. The State has been liberal in providing the funds necessary for the education and advancement of this class of our citizens, and it behooves you to enact such laws as will assist in securing the results expected from such an expenditure of the State funds. The report of the trustees is herewith submitted.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The great prevalence of infectious diseases, the increase of population in the towns, and a due regard for the health of the citizens of the State, renders the report of the State Board of Health, herewith submitted, of great interest. I commend it to your consideration, and deem it wise that the laws should be so amended as to make ample provision for the protection of the health of our citizens, with power to enforce them. At present the means and the power to secure proper protection to the people in case of a severe epidemic are entirely inadequate. Great suffering and loss of life may occur if the necessary legislation is not secured.

DISTRIBUTION OF DIRECT TAX.

I received from the treasurer of the United States the sum of $70,772.02 under the act of Congress, approved March the second, A. D. 1891, providing for the refunding to the States the amount of direct tax paid by their citizens, and proceeded with the distribution of the same under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly passed May 8, 1891. The work has progressed with great rapidity, through the efficiency of the commissioner, J. Frank Wilds, who has approved of certificates for over $58,000, which I have paid. The outstanding claims are all small, many being less than would be the cost of collection, owing to the necessity of obtaining letters of administration and other causes. There is every reason to believe that more than enough to pay every expense attending the distribution will remain uncalled for. A full and detailed report of all payments and expenses will be submitted at an early date.

FIRE WASTE.

I herewith submit the statistics of fire waste in the United States, and call your attention to the rapid increase of the loss by the destruction of property by fire. A large per cent. of this loss is caused by incendiarism, want of adequate regulations as to special hazards, such as electricity, oils, explosives and dangerous compounds, and the poor construction of buildings. This is not only a source of great loss of property by its destruction, but also a heavy burden upon our citizens by the necessary increase of the cost of carrying the risk. Stricter measures should be provided to detect and bring to trial those guilty of incendiarism, and provisions made to secure statistics as to the origin or causes of fires, so that, with these facts, intelligent action can be taken to secure the precautionary measures necessary to prevent this increase of the waste of property and relieve our citizens of the burden of increased premiums to those who carry the risk.

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The result of the late Presidential election has emphasized unmistakably the perception in the public mind of the evils of class legislation, and the control of the sovereign power of public taxation for the sake and by the dictation of private interest, and it may be confidently hoped that by the restoration of this great public power to public hands, and for none but public uses, the gross inequalities which have marked tariff legislation for the last quarter of a century will be thoroughly and steadily removed.

The resolve of the overwhelming majority of the American people, so clearly expressed at the last election, has been that no money or property should, under any pretext, or by any indirection, be taken under the forms of taxation from the pockets of the individual who earns it except it be to provide the necessary revenue of the government to pay its expenses economically administered. While it is possible that so wise, just and profound a reform may be obstructed and delayed, yet it is certain in the end to be accomplished, and it is believed that no class of our citizens will feel more sensibly and beneficially the carrying out of such a reform than those engaged in agriculture and its kindred pursuits.

If the farmers of Delaware could be relieved from that taxation contained in our tariff laws, which yield little or no revenue to the public treasury, and yet increase the cost of living, and obstruct exchange with foreign nations, they would experience a lightening of pecuniary burdens compared to which the taxes imposed for State purposes are but as dust in the balance.

REPORTS.

In addition to the reports already referred to I herewith submit the following, viz: Report of the Farmers' Bank of the State of Delaware; report of the State Chemist; report of the State Board of Education, with the reports of the Superintendents of Public Schools of the several counties; and a list of Reprieves and Pardons granted by me, with the reasons therefor.

WHEREAS Almighty God, in his infinite wisdom, has again visited the people of this State with a heavy affliction in the removal of one of her honored sons, just elevated to the position of presiding judge in our courts of law, where, in the brief time during which he filled such position, he had shown that judicial temperament, gentleness and kindness of heart, and great knowledge of the law, which demonstrated his fitness and qualification for the high post to which he had been appointed; therefore

Be it resolved, That this General Assembly has heard with deep sorrow of the sudden death of the Honorable Alfred P. Robinson, Chief Justice of this State, whose genial manners, earnestness of purpose and high professional attainments so well qualified him for the position of Chief Justice, and assured to the people of the whole State, during his incumbency of that high place, the administration of law and justice with an even hand, fearlessly and without favor or affection.

Resolved, That in his death the State has lost a distinguished and able citizen, the bar an eloquent advocate, and the bench a learned member, who well maintained the high reputation of Delaware's judiciary, and whose fame, had he lived, would have been surpassed by none of those upright and illustrious men who had preceded him.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased jurist our respectful sympathy, and that, as a mark of respect to his memory, the houses of this General Assembly shall attend his funeral in a body.

Gentlemen of the Senate:

I cannot refrain from acknowledging the very complimentary resolution adopted this morning in approval of my course while presiding over our deliberations. Intimately acquainted with you all as I am, and knowing that none of you are given to the use of empty words, I am persuaded that you have in that resolution expressed your true feelings and sincere convictions. But I am conscious that whatever success may have attended me in the discharge of my duties should, in a great measure, be attributed to your assistance, coöperation and forbearance. Nevertheless it is no self-praise when I say that I have been at all times controlled by but one desire and actuated by but one impulse, and that, to discharge my duties with fairness and impartiality. I cheerfully concede to each of you the same disposition and the same desire.
